Pediatric Track: Respiratory Emergencies

It is important for emergency healthcare professionals to be familiar with the unique anatomical features of the pediatric airway and be able to safely and successfully assess and manage airway emergencies in a timely fashion. The pediatric track will consist of a combination of both didactic and hands-on training in a relaxed and safe learning environment. Attendees will receive the latest evidence-based strategies and guidelines in safe and effective pediatric airway assessment and management of common pediatric respiratory emergencies, as well as learn about new updates on the use of intranasal medications in children in the emergency department. The learning experience will be rounded out by a procedural workshop in a small group format led by pediatric emergency medicine experts where attendees can apply and further hone their airway management skills.

Breakfast provided. Space is limited; first-come, first-serve.

9:00 AM - 10:00 AM

Lectures:

• Pediatric Airway Assessment and Management

Vanessa Perez, MD, FAAP

Pediatric airways have anatomical and physiological differences compared to adults. It is important for emergency healthcare professionals to be familiar with these unique anatomical features to be able to safely and successfully assess and manage airway emergencies.

• Stuck in my throat: Acute Upper Airway Obstruction

Sara Kirby, MD, FACEP

Due to their anatomy, upper airway obstruction in children have unique and variable presentation and management. The etiologies vary widely throughout the age groups. Common causes of upper airway obstruction are croup, epiglottitis, bacterial tracheitis, foreign body aspiration and retropharyngeal abscess.

• Up the Nose: Use Intranasal Medications in the Pediatric Population

Caroline Molins, MD, MSMEd

Delivery of medications intranasally is a rapid method to provide anxiolysis, analgesia and sedation. This lecture will provide the latest evidence-based updates on the use of intranasal medications in children in the ED.

10:20 AM - 12:00 PM

Skills Stations:

• Approach to the Pediatric Airway

Vanessa Perez, MD, FAAP & Arino Neto, MD

Demonstrate initial steps in the evaluation and management of the pediatric airway (airway positioning, HFNC/CPAP, bag-valve mask ventilation).

• Airway Adjuncts

Ariel Vera, MD, FACEP and Kamal Chavda, MMBS, MD, FAAP

Review use of OPA, NPA, supraglottic airway devices.

• Direct Laryngoscopy

John Misdary, MD, FACEP, FAAEM, FAAP & Todd Wylie, MD

Demonstrate endotracheal intubation techniques.

• Difficult Airway

Tricia Swan, MD, MEd, FACEP, FAAP & Cristina Zeretzke, MD, FAAP, FAAEM, FACEP

Practice difficult airway management (bougie, video and fiberoptic scopes, needle cricothyroidotomy).

• Rapid Sequence Intubation

Yiraima Medina-Blasini, MD, FACEP & Caroline Molins, MD, MSMEd

Practice rapid sequence intubation in a pediatric patient.

• RSL: Simulation Demo with Debrief

Demonstrate team-based evaluation and management of a pediatric rapid sequence intubation.

9:00 AM - 10:00 AM ESTERO C

Networking Breakfast with My Sanitas, sponsored by My Sanitas

Andrzej Dmwoski, MD

Join us as we talk about the Sanitas Model of Care and Emergency Medicine Expansion. Breakfast provided.

10:00 AM - 10:25 AM ESTERO C

Escalating Risk and Reward: Understanding the Final Rollout of MACRA/MIPS

Andrea Brault MD, MMM, FACEP

Changes are coming to the Merit-Based Incentive System (MIPS), and provider groups must start preparing before it's too late. Bigger financial downside and harder to achieve benchmarks are on the horizon. But bigger risks can also create opportunities for those who can effectively manage their MIPS performance. This talk will outline upcoming changes to MIPS and provide strategies for maximizing performance.

10:00 AM - 12:00 PM GREAT EGRET

FEMF Board of Directors Meeting

10:30 AM - 10:55 AM ESTERO C

A Crash Course: Documentation Updates for the Not-So-Crashing Patient

Jason Adler, MD, MMM, FAAEM

With major documentation guideline changes coming in 2023, this talk will provide a high-yield and focused review of these updates. The presentation will zoom in on key issues, including capturing acuity, the importance of social determinants of health, and the challenges of discharged level 5 patients.

11:00 AM - 11:25 AM ESTERO C

Observation Coding Update: What to Expect in 2023

Jordan Celeste, MD, FACEP & David McKenzie, CAE

2023 will bring new documentation guideline changes for most Evaluation and Management (E/M) codes, none more dramatic than observation services. This session will cover expected changes and likely impacts on the use of observation services in the ED setting.

11:30 AM - 11:55 AM ESTERO C

If You Do Not Like Change in EM Reimbursement and Policy, Then You Will Not Like This Talk

Ed Gaines, JD, CCP

The federal No Surprises Act (NSA) is the most significant legislation regarding physician revenue cycle management

(RCM) in decades. Critical updates will be provided. CPT has slated one of the Observation Code sets to be deleted (observation for treatment and discharge on different dates) and included that service into the hospital inpatient code sets. What are the implications for EM? How will the 2023 Medicare Fee Schedule and potential cuts impact the specialty? CMS has not since 1994-95 changed the Medicare Documentation Guidelines (DGs) in a significant way—all of that changes on 1/1/23. Will your group be ready for this sea of change?

12:00 PM - 1:00 PM ESTERO C

Xarelto: Treatment and Reduction in the Risk of Recurrent DVT/PE, Whether Initiated Inpatient or Outpatient, sponsored by Janssen/Johnson & Johnson

Jason W. Wilson, MD, MA, FACEP

Lunch provided.

1:00 PM - 1:30 PM ESTERO AB

1:30 PM - 2:30 PM ESTERO C

Identifying, Recruiting, and Retaining Future Leaders

Jamie Shoemaker, MD, FACEP, Steve Kailes, MD, MPH, FACEP, FAAEM, & Nicolas Cozzi, MD, MBA

Building future leaders is often an intentional process. We will discuss the journeys of several colleagues as they have navigated their careers and opportunities. Their experiences will serve to demonstrate a proactive approach to identify, recruit and empower future leaders to successfully promote the interests of emergency medicine colleagues and groups, now and into the future.

2:30 PM - 2:45 PM ESTERO AB

Break in the Exhibit Hall

2:45 PM - 5:45 PM SANIBEL

Florida EM Resident Case Presentation Competition (CPC)

In the CPC, residency programs submit real ED cases that competing teams will critically analyze and discuss. The

2:45 PM - 3:10 PM ESTERO C

Extreme Ownership in EM

Andrew Little, DO, FACEP

Discuss how EM physicians can incorporate the equation of E + R = O and help them recognize how moving their "R" from being reactionary to being responsive can transform how they perform in the clinical and professional setting.

3:15 PM - 3:40 PM ESTERO C

Battling Burnout and Restoring Resiliency

Thom Mayer, MD, FACEP, FAAP, FACHE

With rising job stressors and declining adaptive capacity/resiliency, burnout now affects 60% of emergency physicians, despite the fact we are the most resilient physicians. In this presentation, Dr. Mayer will present a pragmatic definition of burnout, as well as practical solutions to battle burnout and restore resiliency. His book, Battling Healthcare Burnout, recently won the ACHE's Hamilton Award for the best leadership book of 2022 and this presentation is filled with insights and solutions from his work.

3:45 - 4:10 PM ESTERO C

From Insights to Interventions: Using the Unique Vantage Point of the Emergency Department to Drive Healthcare Transformation

Randy Pilgrim, MD, FACEP

Over the past 50 years, the ED has evolved from a single room in a hospital to a robust specialty that provides high-quality care in a highly professional department. The ED now occupies a central role in a community, and sits at the interface of inpatient and outpatient services. As such, the ED has a highly unique perspective not only about the health of its patients, but the health of the health care system itself. This presentation explores the insights that program that submitted the case then completes the discussion with the actual patient outcome.

COMPETITORS:

GROUP A: 2:45 pm - 4:05 pm

- Jackson Health/University of Miami
- USF/Tampa Emergency Medicine
- AdventHealth East Orlando

GROUP B: 4:15 pm - 5:45 pm

- UCF/HCA Healthcare GME Consortium (Greater Orlando)
- Sarasota Memorial Hospital/FSU
- Orlando Health
- HCA North Florida

come from that unique vantage point, and key interventions that, if implemented, will drive health care transformation at a critical time in health care's history.

4:15 PM - 4:40 PM ESTERO C

Improving the Care of Patients and Emergency Physicians with Mental Illness

L. Anthony Cirillo, MD, FACEP

The care of patients with mental illness in the emergency department continues to be a growing challenge for emergency physicians. Understanding the importance of providing appropriate and supportive care to this patient population will be discussed. Discussion of the key role that emergency physicians can play in the direct care of patients with mental illness, and of improving the system of mental health care delivery in the country will be addressed.

4:45 PM - 5:10 PM ESTERO C

Leadership is Worthless... but Leading is Priceless: Leading Lessons from the NFL

Thom Mayer, MD, FACEP, FAAP, FACHE

Emergency medicine is in the midst of the "perpetual whitewater of change," in which change is the only constant and leading is at a premium. But somewhat counterintuitively, leadership is worthless- it is a noun, a set of slides, a book, or a training course-whereas leading is a noun-and a noun in the active voice- there can be no passive form of leading. This presentation outlines the concept of leading in times of crisis and the necessity of every emergency department physician, nurse, and APP as a leader. It then provides 9 key leading lessons, laced with examples from the emergency department, life, literature, and the speaker's 20 year experience in the NFL!

5:15 PM - 6:15 PM CAPTIVA A

EM Research Poster Competition: Group A Judging

Residents, fellows and medical students participating in this competition will present their poster to the judges.

2022 Updates: Acute Ischemic Stroke

Latha Ganti, MD, MS, MBA, FACEP

This talk will highlight the acute management of hemorrhagic stroke (intracerebral hemorrhage), as recommended in the 2019 updates to the 2018 guidelines (latest) AHA/ASA guidelines. The conundrum of whether or not to treat mild strokes with tpa will be specifically highlighted.

9:00 AM - 9:30 AM SANIBEL

ECMO in the ED

Joseph Shiber, MD, FACEP, FCCM, FNCS

A case-based program demonstrating the utility of initiating ECMO (both Venovenous and Venovenous-Arterial) in the ED for multiple life-threatening conditions such as severe hypoxemic respiratory failure, status asthmaticus, drowning, severe blunt chest injuries, and refractory cardiac arrest. Graphics including diagrams and photographs will be used to help illustrate the patient physiology and interactions with the extracorporeal circulation.

9:30 AM - 10:00 AM ESTERO C

2022 Updates: Hemorrhagic Stroke

by Dr. Latha Ganti, MD, MS, MBA, FACEP

This talk will highlight the acute management of hemorrhagic stroke (intracerebral hemorrhage), as recommended in the 2022 AHA/ASA guidelines. The specifics of blood pressure management and reversal of anticoagulation will be highlighted.

Gender Bias in EM

Christine Van Dillen, MD, FACEP

Emergency medicine is a demanding and difficult specialty. We strive to give the best care to our patients efficiently. Studies state that 70% of mistakes made in the emergency department are preventable. Our complete understanding of how our own implicit bias can affect our ability to diagnose, treat and disposition patients. Come learn common missed opportunities when treating our female patients.

10:00 AM - 11:30 AM ESTERO C

EM Town Hall

Damian Caraballo, MD, FACEP, Gillian Schmitz, MD, FACEP, Jason Adler, MD, FACEP, FAAEM, Andrea Brault, MD, MMM, FACEP, L. Anthony Cirillo, MD, FACEP

Let your voice be heard in the discussion and sharing about hot topics in emergency medicine, including workforce, legislative and regulatory issues, and more!

11:30 AM - 12:00 PM SANIBEL

ARDS Management: Beyond the Ventilator

Casey Carr, MD

Emergency clinicians have been encountering patients with ARDS with increasing frequency, and being tasked with managing these highly challenging patients for a longer period of time and with more advanced therapies. In this lecture, we will discuss the key tools for the management of ARDS, outside of mechanical ventilation.

11:30 AM - 12:30 PM ESTERO C

Surfside Collapse: Anatomy of the Champlain Towers Disaster

Dr. Benjamin Abo, DO, EMT-P, FAWM

EMS medical director for Miami-Dade Fire Rescue and Urban Search & Rescue Florida Task Force 1, Dr. Ben Abo spent a month at the scene of the Champlain Towers in Surfside, FL, after its collapse on June 24, 2021. Join Dr. Abo as he shares his experiences from the ground, detailing what led to the collapse; the search, rescue, and recovery efforts; and the physical and emotional impact to first responders.

How to Use Ultrasound Effectively in the Critical Patient

Diana Mora, MD

Learn what bed ultrasound exams and how to do them are the most high yield on the critically ill patient in the ED.

12:30 PM - 1:30 PM ESTERO C
Crossroads in the ED: Respiratory Infections and Clinical Evidence, sponsored by Abbott Rapid Diagnostics

Larry Mellick, MS, MD, FAAP, FACEP

Join this insightful session on clinically-driven initiatives to improve rapid respiratory testing for infectious diseases in the Emergency Department (ED). The speaker will discuss respiratory illness practice guidelines, clinical challenges and opportunities to improve triage to follow-up in patients with respiratory illnesses. Hear details on the department rationale for bringing an ED-based mini lab into the physician in triage (PIT) area. Clinical cases and outcome improvements focused on quality, safety and ED efficiency will also be presented.

Lunch provided.

1:30 PM - 3:30 PM ESTERO C

1:30 PM - 1:45 PM SANIBEL
The PENG Block - A Novel ED Pain
Management Strategy in Acute Hip
Fracture

Townsend Reeves, MD

The Pericapsular Nerve Group Block (PENG) is a novel, ultrasound-guided, regional analgesic modality that provides selective articular sensory block of the hip. Primarily utilized in acute pain management of traumatic hip fracture patients, the PENG is quick and easy to perform in the ED, providing superior analgesia compared to the Femoral Nerve Block (FNB) and Fascia Iliaca Compartment Block (FICB), with the added benefit of being a motor sparing block.

1:50 PM - 2:05 PM SANIBEL
Financial Strategies and Wellness

Ali Syed, MD

Quick talk on specific strategies residents, new attendings, and even seasoned attendings can employ to save money and make the most of their finances. Also featuring wellness advice that can help physicians overcome burnout.

2:10 PM - 2:25 PM SANIBEL
Differentiating Wide Complex
Tachycardias in the Emergency Department

William Waite, DO, MS

Tachyarrhythmias with a wide QRS complex morphology presents a very complex clinical challenge. The differential diagnosis includes arrhythmias with supraventricular and ventricular origins which may be difficult to diagnose and treat. Making the distinction and arriving at an accurate diagnosis is of utmost importance as this will influence clinical work-up, determine patient care and set the foundation for long term management. On the contrary, a misdiagnosis can be detrimental to the patient resulting in inappropriate care and hemodynamic instability.
